

RESERVA

MEXICAN RUM

Ultra-Premium Mexican Rum

for which we have selected the best 22 American oak barrels available for ageing in a solera system, a process which yields a unique and very refined blend.

Cane

grown on Veracruz soil was selected and specially cared for in order to produce the best possible rum through the extraction of "guarapo", the juice extracted directly from sugarcane during the post-harvest milling process.

Guarapo

is also consumed on its own as a refreshing and energising drink during the summer months or the dry season. These are the foundations from which RON RESERVA 22 is made.

The mixture is comprised of 4 components

The first barrels are filled with pecan and almond husks as well as peaches from the Mexican state of Zacatecas. The rest are filled with guarapo.

These American white oak barrels are placed in a solera which produces a bottled product that is a blend obtained from all of the 22 ageing barrels that have been subjected to carefully timed extraction and refilling processes to ensure a perfect mixture.
